A Novel Library.

The Waltheil Library in Ryegate Place a Year in Different Farm Houses.

The town of Ryegate has a library that travels which is not a traveling library. This is the Waltheil library, named for its founder and benefactor, that spends a year in one farmhouse and then goes the next year to another, so that every one in the district may have equal access. The books stand in a ten section Weynick bookcase and number about 300 volumes. Beside the books the library association owns an organ and a set of dishes. With these they get up suppers and entertainments and from the proceeds get new books. These social affairs are held at the homes of the different members and the organ and dishes are carried about as needed. When not in use the organ stands in the school house where it is used by the teacher, and some of the reference books are kept in the school house for the use of the pupils. Part of the time the books are located in a farmhouse across the corner from the school house and then the children consult them often. The books are well selected and cared for and are free both to members of the association and to others who will take good care of them. This little collection of books is really the center of the social and intellectual life of that corner of the town.

Prof. Perkins' Lecture.

About fifty men attended the lecture given by Prof. G. H. Perkins of the University of Vermont before the Congregational Brotherhood of the North church on Friday evening. Prof. Perkins' subject was "Water as an Earth Sculptor" and he gave a very interesting talk on the effect of water on the earth's surface. He showed many views of the noted valleys and canons of the United States, all of which he had visited, and many pictures of the Sinai region and other parts of the world. Prof. Perkins starts January 26 for a trip around the world. While in the hope of an extension of time of the beautifully carved temples of that country in their original colors.

The lantern used at Prof. Perkins' lecture was operated by A. S. Haskins.

Asks for Extension of Time.

The Littleton Journal of January 14 gave the following notice of a meeting which will be of interest to many people living west of the Connecticut: Attorney Hovey of St. Johnsbury, acting for Carl A. Ross was in town this week and met the holders of the Connecticut River bridge, asking for an extension of time on third option which expires February 1. The owners of the charter are not willing to extend the time as they have another bidder in the field, should not Mr. Ross take up his option. The proposition to extend the time six months and while great confidence is placed in Mr. Ross, it is thought advisable to have the matter closed up at once.

It will be noted here that there is a great fight between the Van Dyke estate and the backers of Ross, who also has on his hands a suit for $50,000 brought by Charles E. Everest of Chicago, for alleged breach of contract.

It is the general belief that Mr. Ross will take up his option before the first of the month, but owing to the other bidder no uneasiness is felt even if he should not do so.

Who ever takes this charter must furnish a bond for $10,000 to build within four years and furnish first power to Littleton of $10,000 to be built within five years, and furnish first power to Littleton. With the situation as it is Littleton is assured that its big power plant is a go.

Bowling Contests of Interest.

In the Bowling League last week all the first division team won in straight games. The match Monday night between Somerset and Independent was by far the most interesting of the week, with Somerset to the good, 2274 to 2081, but the others also attracted attention, as neither No. 6 nor Central could afford to lose. Both won and the positions remain unchanged. The pinfall in the Central-Elite match was 2242 to 2039 and in the other No. 6 led Laurel 2157 to 1756. Tonight it is Somerset vs. Elite, and Friday night Central and Laurel cross bats.

BANKING BY MAIL—No 1.

WHAT "BANKING BY MAIL" IS

There is nothing mysterious—nothing complicated about "banking by mail."

It is simply the transaction of your business with a bank by letter through the United States mails instead of coming yourself to the bank—Uncle Sam becomes your messenger between the bank and your place of business or your home.

Millions of dollars in checks, drafts and valuable papers have, for years, passed through the mails between banks and business houses in perfect safety, and of late years, thousands of people, living at a distance from a bank, have opened checking accounts by mail and transacted all their subsequent business with the bank in the same manner.

Next week we will tell you exactly how "Banking by Mail" may
